The SAGE Encyclopedia of Educational Technology Apr 29 2022 Leveraging the power of technology to support teaching and learning is certainly not new. But with more low-cost, easy-to-use, easily accessible devices and systems than ever before, we are at a critical inflection point where we must decide how technology powers and aids learning in the classroom. But is new technology the cure-all all? Some studies have shown students retain information better in traditional print formats. There's no question about the potential for new technologies to improve learning, but it's all in how it's approached, adapted, and used toward the service of achieving real gains in student performance. It's issues like this that are explored within the pages of this new Encyclopedia. To maximize shelf life, the editor and authors strove to focus on core topics and issues that will retain relevance in the face of perpetually evolving devices, services and specific techniques. Features include: A collection of 300-350 entries that are organized in A-to-Z fashion in two volumes available in a choice of print or electronic formats. Entries, authored by key figures in the field, conclude with cross references and further readings. Although organized A-to-Z, a Reader's Guide groups related articles within broad, thematic areas. A detailed Index, the Reader's Guide themes, and Cross References combine for search-and-browse in the electronic version.

You Are Born to Win Mar 17 2021 I do comprehend that my life was predestinated by God before He set the entire universe in order. My adventurous journey of... Life failures, challenges, and my prison circumstances has caused me to realize that there is no demarcations Which can hinder me from reaching my God given Destiny, unless you place those limitations in your Life. Remember that the choices you make today will determine whom you will become tomorrow. You are the product of your mind. Thomas Edison quoted "Many of life's failures are people who did not realize how close they were to success when they gave up." You Are Born To Win is an inspirational Christian autobiography by an extraordinary prisoner who was convicted to twelve years imprisonment for several high profile cases. Nhlakanipho Tsakane Siyanda Sikobi has spent many awkward years on the street... sleeping in the cold freezing weather without blankets, he was also imprisoned on many occasions. Nevertheless he never stopped seeking the main core of his dreams, purpose, identity and his destiny through God's Word regardless of his daily prison ordeals. For the longest loneliest hard times he experienced behind those darkest prison corridors. However God's light shone upon his life then the zeal of transformation and to discover his Identity was birthed. However he is absolutely certain that winners never intended to be life springbok, nevertheless they are very similar to a chameleon. They can transform their color anywhere and anytime to reflect the environment they are going through. What I believe is, they are born with perseverance they are determined to walk slowly to reach their destiny. Chameleon's understands that perseverance is the sign of Victory... No matter where they are they will never change their desire, instinct and determination. Success isn't for people who run like a springbok. It is for people who will imitate a chameleon who will never be inferior of how long the journey of success is. However they are determined and optimistic. If your potential to excel is strong enough... Failure will not defeat the enthusiasm of success within you, and the power to discover the core purpose of life. I'm absolutely certain that failure will uplift you to a better place than yesterday. A genuine success is made up through life's failures and life's challenges, it is never made through success activities. Yet failure is the only door and the bridge to go through and to access greener pastures.

E-Learning in the Middle East and North Africa (MENA) Region Mar 05 2020 In the last decade, due to factors of ICT infrastructural and broadband maturation, rising levels of educational attainment and computer literacy, and diversification strategies, e-learning has exploded in the Middle East and North Africa (MENA) region. However, significant barriers remain in the region's e-learning development: lack of research on outcomes and effectiveness, paucity of Arabic language learning objects, monopolies and high cost of telecommunications, cultural taboos, accreditation, censorship, and teacher training. This unique volume is the first comprehensive effort to describe the history, development, and current state of e-learning in each of the 20 MENA countries from Algeria to Yemen. Each entry is expertly written by a specialist who is acutely familiar with the state of e-learning in their respective country, and concludes with a bibliography of key reports, peer-reviewed books and articles, and web resources. E-Learning in the Middle East and North Africa (MENA) proves itself as a vital compendium for a wide readership that includes academics and students, transnational program directors, international education experts, MENA government departments, commercial vendors and investors, and ICT development and regulatory agencies involved in e-learning in the Middle East.

Islamic Geometric Design Jul 09 2020 Islamic geometric designs are admired worldwide for their beauty and marvellous intricacy, yet in truth they are seldom understood. Indeed, their complexity and artistry can seem almost beyond the powers of human ingenuity. In this handsomely illustrated volume, artist and teacher Eric Broug analyses and explains these complex designs in their historical and physical context. His own original drawings accompany magnificent photographs of mosques, madrasas, palaces and tombs from the Islamic world, ranging from North Africa to Iran and Uzbekistan, and from the 8th to the 19th centuries. Chapters are devoted to each of the main families of geometric design fourfold, fivefold and sixfold and to the complex combined patterns. Every design is carefully explained, and illustrated with a wealth of stunning photographs and clear, meticulously detailed drawings. Readers can follow the design processes by which these patterns were created and even learn to reproduce and invent geometric patterns for themselves, using exactly the same tools as the Islamic craftsmen of old: a ruler and a pair of compasses.

Life Under the Sun Oct 31 2019 The author David Yen spent 20 years at Sun Microsystems, Inc. In the 1990s, he led the development of Sun's first- and second-generation multi-CPU SMP servers, which transformed Sun from a workstation company to a leading enterprise server company. As head of Sun's Microelectronics group in 2001, he turned around Sun's declining SPARC microprocessor business, introducing the industry's first 8-core, 32-thread general-purpose processor in 2005 and developing it into a multi-billion dollar business. Sun was "the Google in the '90s" and highly regarded for its innovations even in the Silicon Valley. Founded in 1982 by Andy Bechtolsheim, Bill Joy, Scott McNealy, and Vinod Khosla and started as a workstation vendor using off-the-shelf components, Sun surpassed established information technology giants such as Digital Equipment Corporation, IBM and Hewlett-Packard in the '90s and became "the dot in .com" in that crazy late '90s era. In the twenty years that the author worked at Sun, he got to witness the rise and eventually the fall of the company. The author was not on the very top of the decision making layer, yet he was on a level high enough to know and sometimes influence what was going on. By documenting what he experienced and what his thoughts were at the time, the author believes he might have provided a piece of reading that young engineering graduates could get a preview of what they may experience, young business administration graduates could get a peek at thoughts of engineering management, contemporary industry veterans could get some smiles from time to time if what the author described triggered the reminiscence of their own, and readers outside of Silicon Valley could get a glimpse of how the Valley operates through various behind-the-scene stories.

Public Access ICT across Cultures Aug 22 2021 A systematic assessment of the impact of public access to computers and the Internet, with findings from developing countries in South America, Asia, and Africa. Shared public access to computers and the Internet in developing countries is often hailed as an effective, low-cost way to share the benefits of digital technology. Yet research on the economic and social effects of public access to computers is lacking. This volume offers the first systematic assessment of the impact of shared public access in the developing world, with findings from ten countries in South America, Asia, and Africa. It provides evidence that the benefits of diversified participation in digital society go beyond providing access to technology. Public access venues—most often Internet cafés in cities and state-run telecenters in rural areas—are places for learning, sharing, working, empowerment and finding opportunities. The book documents the impact of public access on individuals, on society and networks, and on women. Chapters report findings and examine policy implications of research on such topics as users' perceptions of the benefits of Internet café use in Jordan; ICT job training in Rwanda; understanding user motivations and risk factors for overuse and Internet addiction in China; the effect of technology use on social inclusion among low-income urban youth in Argentina; productive uses of technologies by grassroots organizations in Peru; use of technology by migrant ethnic minority Burmese women in Thailand to maintain ties with their culture and their family and friends; and women's limited access to the most ubiquitous type of venue, cybercafés, in practically all countries studied—and quite severely in some places, e.g. Uttar Pradesh, India.
